LARCENY CASE NEARS CLOSE

DEFENSE CLAIMS ALIBI

Youth at Home at Time of Robbery of Robbery, He Declares—Cross Wins Judgment.

Closing arguments were made this afternoon in the state case against Charles Cook of Mound City, with prospect that a verdict would be reached before adjournment.

The jury hearing the case was composed of C. C. Bears, Carl Birdsell, Jake Burch, Edison Blagg, J. L. Teson, T. M. Cox, Roy Birkenholz, Joseph Horning, J. R. Gibbs, C. J. Merrigan, John Porter and D. N. Scott.

The defense rested its case just before noon and Judge John Dawson read his instructions to the jury at the reconvening of court this afternoon. Cook himself was one of the defense witnesses.

Cook was charged with burglary and larceny in connection with the robbery of the garage of Shores Brothers at Quitman in April of this year. Tires and automobile accessories to the value of approximately $150 were stolen.

The state's evidence against Cook was circumstantial. Its witnesses testified that a robbery was committed and that sometime later the stolen property was found in possession of Cook. The state also sought to show that Cook's reputation was bad.

R. L. Minton, attorney of Mound City, in his opening statement in defense of Cook, announced that evidence would be introduced to prove that the young defendant was not in Quitman at the time of the alleged robbery and that he bought the stolen property from another man.

Attorney Minton outlined the early life of Cook, saying that he was born and reared in Mound City and giving his age as 25. In 1917, the attorney said, Cook entered the national military service and served overseas in the World War. Returning to his home, he fell in with bad companions, according to the attorney. He admitted that the youth had pleaded guilty in another automobile case and had served eighteen months in the state penitentiary.

The defense attorney declared that testimony would prove that Cook was at the home of his parents in Mound City at the time the garage was robbed. He asserted that the tires and accessories found in possession of Cook were bought by him from Russell Yount, a young farmer living near Big Lake, in Holt County. A subpoena had been issued for Yount, but he had not been located.

In the case of R. D. Cross against Roy Judah and others, an attachment suit, a jury was waived and the evidence was heard by the court, after which a judgment was rendered for the plaintiff. On the first count he was awarded $286.80, with interest computed at 8 per cent, and on the second count $28 with interest at 6 per cent. A special execution was ordered levied on the attached property.

Answers were filed by the defendants in the cases of the Bank of Hopkins against Ethyl Warren, B. F. Goodrich Rubber Co. against From Bros., and Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. against From Bros.

The next case on the jury is that of the state against Burt Martin, charged with the sale of intoxicating liquor, and Prosecuting Attorney George Pat Wright announced that the state would answer ready for trial.

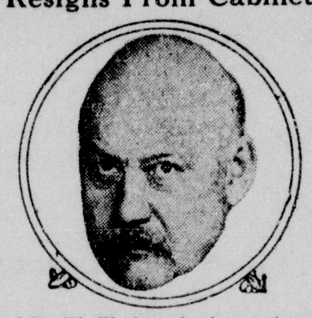
Horton Hearing Is Postponed to Nov. 16

Purdy, Mo., Physician Would Restrain State Board of Health From Hearing Charges Against Him.

Jefferson City, Oct. 13.—The temporary injunction suit of Dr. Ray B. Horton of Purdy, Mo., to restrain the state board of health from hearing charges against him, scheduled for hearing tomorrow in the Cole County circuit court, will be postponed to November 16, as a result of an order by Judge Westhues here today.

The motion for postponement was made by W. W. Graves, Jr. of Kansas City, attorney for Dr. Horton, who pleaded he had not had an opportunity to prepare for the hearing because of the primary election in Kansas City. Graves is a member of the board of election commissioners and a son of Judge Graves of the Supreme Court.

Resigns From Cabinet



John W. Weeks, who has resigned as Secretary of War because of ill health. He will be succeeded by Dwight F. Davis of Missouri.

Forbes Field, Pittsburgh, Oct. 13.—The Pittsburgh "Pirates" today won from the Washington "Senators" 3 to 2. The batteries for today's game: Washington: Ferguson, Ballau and Severeid, Ruel. For Pittsburgh: Kremer and Smith.

The mercury rose considerably during the night and the forecast was for warmer weather. The probable pitchers will be: Washington, Ferguson or Reuther; Pittsburgh, Kremer.

No Blame Fixed In Excursion Disaster

Authorities Dispense With Inquest and Superintend Placing of Bodies on Homeward Bound Trains

Melbourne, Fla., Oct. 13—Dispensing with an inquest on the grounds that blame for the disaster could not be placed on any one's shoulders, authorities today superintended the placing of twelve victims of the capsized Clara B aboard a train and sent them to their respective homes.

Fishermen and members of the coast guard still were searching today for two missing members of the party that went down when the pleasure launch was turned over by gigantic breakers near Sebastian inlet Sunday afternoon.

One of the cases was brought against him by W. T. Asedale and the other by Aesdale and Monk. A judgment of $248.81 was rendered in the first and $77.21 in the second.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Reece returned today from Omaha where they have been visiting the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Truman Worst, for two weeks. Mrs. Worst accompanied them to Maryville for a visit.

DIES SUDDENLY WHEN HUNTING

ARTHUR E. PETERS SUCCUMBS NEAR LEE BRIDGE.

HEART DISEASE CAUSE

Had Been Employed As Lineman For Peoples Telephone Union— Short Funeral Services Tomorrow.

Arthur E. Peters, 43 years old, a lineman for the Peoples Telephone Union for some time, dropped dead while duck hunting near the Lee bridge, northeast of town, about 5:20 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Peters and Thomas Eckert left Maryville about 4:30 o'clock. They arrived in the vicinity of Lee bridge a short time later and were near a pond, one on either side.

Suddenly Mr. Peters fell. Young Eckert heard him groan and went to his assistance. The victim gasped once and was dead.

Dr. Frank Wallis, county coroner, viewed the body and said death was due to heart disease.

Mr. Peters was born in Traer, Ia. He had also lived in Disert, Ia., and began work on telephone lines when he was about 16 years old. He came to Maryville in May, 1924, from Galesburg, Ill. where he had been employed by a telephone company. About two months ago, he was confined in a hospital at Marshalltown, Ia., and apparently had recovered.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by one daughter, Wilma, a brother Henry Peters of Manhattan, Kan., and two sisters, Mrs. Will Schlotfelt, Mondovi, Wisc., and Mrs. Amos Bagley, Monticello, Minn.

Short funeral services will be held at the Price Funeral Home at 9:30 o'clock tomorrow morning, conducted by the Rev. Guy L. Prather, pastor of the Baptist Church. The body will be shipped to Toledo, Ia., and short services held at the Rose Hill cemetery near there Thursday.

The office of the Farmers Telephone Union will be closed from 9:30 to 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning.

He spends all of his time traveling in different parts of the country and is recognized as one of the country's ablest speakers on the subject of community building.

The meeting Monday night will be open to women, according to D. A. Caldwell, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

County Clerk To Go To State Convention

Fred Smith Plans to Leave Tonight for Excelsior Springs—to Discuss Road Problems

Fred Smith, Nodaway County clerk, plans to leave tonight for Excelsior Springs to attend a state convention of county clerks, to be held October 14, 15 and 16. Mr. Smith will not return until Friday night.

One of the most important subjects to be discussed by the county clerks, Mr. Smith said, is the problem of securing the right-of-way for state roads. There is a wide difference of opinion as to whether county courts should pay for right-of-way.

Office proceedure and other matters of peculiar interest to county clerks will occupy most of the time.

County Clerk Smith's expenses at the convention are paid by himself and not by the county.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Thompson of Bedison returned last Friday from Torrington, Wyo., where they have been visiting their son, Frank Thompson, and family for five weeks. Mr. and Mrs. Thompson and daughter accompanied them home for a visit.

Hunter Believes License Issued On 13th Brings Luck

That dread number, 13, holds no terror for Ray Ashworth of Graham. He believes that a hunting license issued on October 13 will bring him good luck, rather than ill.

Mr. Ashworth applied for a license by mail this morning at the office of Fred Smith, county clerk. With his application he sent along his last year's license, and examination revealed that it was issued on October 13.

Sundial was also shown at the Missouri State Fair where he won the fine harness as well as a number of other classes. This horse is a Nodaway County product, having been bred and raised by Charles Caldwell, Jr., of Burlington Junction, and sold early in the spring to Mr. Petrikin for the highest price ever commanded by a local saddle horse.

Sundial will be shown along with other horses from the Pastime Stables, at the Kansas National Horse Show at Wichita, Kans., November 9 to 16, and the week following at the American Royal at Kansas City where he is entered in the championship stable stake.

After November 1, it will be impossible to buy automobile license tags in Maryville, according to a letter received today by D. A. Caldwell, secretary of the local Chamber of Commerce, from Charles U. Becker, secretary of state.

After the first of the month it will be necessary to secure automobile licenses through application to Jefferson City. Each year the branch offices which are established at different cities are closed about this time.

Thirteen boxes of license tags were on hand at the local office and ten of these were sent to the Kansas City station.

SAYS ECONOMY BLOCKS PLANS

WAR DEPARTMENT OFFICER BLAMES COOLIDGE.

NO MONEY IS WASTED

Witnesses Before President's Air Board Refute Charges by Colonel Mitchell and Madden.

Washington, Oct. 13.—The army air service is under-manned and under-equipped due to the administration's economy policy, Major General Mason Patrick, army air chief, testified today before the President's air board, recalled after Representative Martin B. Madden, Republican of Illinois, chairman of the House appropriations committee, charged the army air service with "squandering millions of dollars on an experimental orgy."

Patrick declared the money spent to improve aviation was invaluable to the national defense. He denied all charges of wasting money.

Washington, Oct. 13.—Voicing the war department's official reply to criticisms of its present military aviation policy, Brig.-Gen. Hugh A. Drum, assistant chief of staff, today denounced before the President's air board all proposals for a separated air service as certain to bring a crushing defeat to America in her next war.

Drum spoke for the war department a statement having been prepared in advance by the general staff as a rebuttal to the two-weeks testimony given the board by army and navy flyers.

He flayed the proposals of both Col. William Mitchell, storm center of the army air service, and General Mason M. Patrick, present air chief, as a "jumble of ideas unsound in strategic value, worthless to the national defense, and intended only to give aviators more special privileges, higher pay and quicker promotion than to America's other fighting units."

Drum "settled" one great controversy of the recent world struggle, while testifying today. He declared that the "dough boy" won the war.

For the lack of funds, blamed by many witnesses for the army's failure to develop aviation, Drum laid the responsibility directly at the White House. He said the economy policy of President Coolidge forced the general staff to under-man the air service along with all other branches of the national defense.

An eighty-million-dollar program for air equipment, planned by the war department, Drum said was abandoned because of this economy. Because of it also, Davis continued, all army organizations in the United States are under-manned and have only 80 per cent of their authorized officer personnel.

"Our foreign garrisons are far below peace strength and the department has great difficulty in carrying out the training of the national guard and organized reserves," Drum said.

Here's Where "Red Hots" Are Needed

Kennett, Mo., Oct. 13.—Hold your breath!! An ordinance went into effect here today making the mere act of drinking liquor an offense. The user does not have to be drunk to court arrest. His breath is evidence.

Nimrods Get Busy After Honking of Geese Over City During Last Night

The honking of geese and the quacking of ducks during the night brought a rush for hunting permits this morning at the office of the county clerk.

At 10:30 o'clock the 999th license for 1925 was issued, and there was little doubt that there would be several more before the day was over. Since October 1, eighty-nine nimrods have applied for permits.

A flock of the migrating birds apparently confused by the city lights, circled over Maryville for some time last night. Bright and early this morning several hunters oiled up their automatic guns, donned hip boots and hied themselves to the marshy places. No phenomenal exploits had reported late this afternoon.

The open season on ducks and geese opened on September 16 and closes by federal law on December 31, although the state closed season is not effective until April 30. The woodcock season is from November 10 to December 31. The limit to any one hunter is fifteen birds a day, and he may not have more than twenty-five in his possession. It is illegal to hunt between sunset and sunrise and hunting from a motor boat is prohibited. Stationary blinds are permitted, however. It is illegal to sell the birds.

The quail season does not open until November 10 and closes December 31. Deer are protected by a closed season until 1930. It is illegal for dogs to chase them.

The season on fur-bearing animals does not open until December 1 and closes January 31. This applies to trappers as well as hunters, and the animals cannot be transported or shipped without a hunting license. A dealer's license is necessary to buy and sell.

No Money, No Water Says Mayor Garrett

Subscribers More Than One Month Behind Will Have Supply Cut Off October 15.

Water service for subscribers who have been delinquent in paying for more than thirty days will be discontinued on October 15, according to an announcement made today by W. O. Garrett, mayor.

"We will have to take this action," the mayor said. "A fee of $1 will be charged for turning the water back on, too. But we don't want that fee. All we want is for the customers to pay their water bills so that our records may be kept clear."

It has been necessary to discontinue water service in but a few homes in the past, Mr. Garrett commented.

POLES WANT FRENCH HELP

BRINGS NEW CRISIS TO SECURITY CONFERENCE.

ASK GERMANY'S AID

European Powers Determine Berlin Government Must Abide By League Decision—Admission Unsettled.

Locarno, Switzerland, Oct. 13.—Poland brought the security pact conference to a new crisis today. Just when the indications for easier going were brighter, the Poles entered a demand that France guarantee the proposed securities pact between Poland and Germany.

Locarno, Switzerland, Oct. 13.—The gentlemen's agreement concerning the conditions of Germany's entry into the league of nations is a collective statement which will be signed by Great Britain, France Italy and Belgium. By its terms Germany agrees to join the league, on the understanding that the league of nations alone is competent to interpret the league covenant.

However, the power signatory to the agreement, all of which are represented in the council, informed Germany, in effect, that in their opinion the league of nations cannot ask from member states military, economic or financial contributions in case of war which would be incompatible with their capacity.

Believe Terms Acceptable

Chancellor Luther and Foreign Minister Stresemann promised the allies to give a definite answer to the league assurance that it would be acceptable.

In the meeting of the allied and German ministers France announced that she wanted the right automatically too intervene in case of a flagrant violation of the integrity of Germany's eastern frontier, but as a protection, was ready to submit doubtful aggression against Poland and Czecho-Slovakia to the league of nations. If Germany refused to submit the difficulty to the league, then France would have the right immediately to help her eastern allies.

Vic Miller May Run For U. S. Senator

St. Louis Mayor To Be Candidate In 1928, He Indicates In Discussion With Reporters.

St. Louis, Oct. 13.—Mayor Victor Miller, in a discussion with reporters at the city hall yesterday, announced himself as a candidate for the United States senate in 1928, provided he completed the program he has in mind as mayor by that time.

"You can't get anything unless you ask for it," he said. "You must be frank with the people. I say sincerely that I would like to devote the rest of my life to politics. I regard it as an honorable profession and it offers a great opportunity for service.

"If I succeed in carrying out my program for the city of St. Louis in the next four years I intend to seek the Republican senatorial nomination in 1928. I have written leters about it and discussed it generally. "I am going from one end of the state to the other. That's the only way you can make it."

DWIGHT DAVIS IS APPOINTED

SUCCEEDS JOHN W. WEEKS AS CABINET MEMBER.

NATIVE OF MISSOURI

Is Born In St. Louis—To Be Formally Sworn In Tomorrow By Chief Justice Taft.

Washington, Oct. 13.—John W. Weeks stepped out of the cabinet today and Dwight F. Davis of Missouri stepped in as the new Secretary of War.

Formal announcement of Weeks' resignation because of ill health and the appointment of Davis as his successor was made at the White House confirming a cabinet shift that had long been anticipated at the capital.

Davis has been Secretary of War in everything but name for nearly six months. He assumed the duties of acting secretary last spring when a nearly fatal attack of illness compelled Weeks to leave Washington.

The retirement of Secretary Weeks after five and a half years of service leaves only four members of the original Harding cabinet still in office, Secretary Mellon, Secretary Hoover Secretary Davis and Postmaster-General New. Death and resignation have claimed all the rest.

Secretary Weeks attended his last cabinet meeting at the White House today and made his farewells in person. His resignation was already in Mr. Coolidge's hands, effective immediately.

Weeks plans to depart soon on a trip to South America. He has been warned by his physicians to give up business entirely.

Davis will be sworn in tomorrow by Chief Justice Taft.

Washington, Oct. 13.—John W. Weeks placed his resignation as secretary of war in President Coolidge's hands yesterday. Formal announcement of his withdrawal from the cabinet because of his health, is expected tomorrow, after his last attendance at a cabinet meeting.

Plans for the selection of his successor have not been disclosed. It has been the president's custom in the past, however, to couple the retirement of a member of his official family with the publication of the name of his successor. He followed that course when Secretary Hughes resigned and was succeeded by Frank B. Kellogg, then ambassador to London.

If the president follows the same course it became probable last night that he would name Dwight F. Davis of Missouri for the war portfolio.

Mr. Davis has been the assistant secretary of war since J. Mayhew Wright resigned to take the place in the house of representatives to which he was elected by his New York constituency. Since Secretary Weeks was stricken last March with the illness that has resulted in his decision to retire, Mr. Davis has been acting secretary and has borne the full administrative burden of the department.

Many other names are known to have been suggested to the president in view of the general feeling that Mr. Weeks would not be able to resume his duties in the war department. These included Secretary Work of the interior department and Postmaster General New, Charles B. Hilles of New York, former chairman of the Republican national committee; Dwight W. Morrow of New York, now chairman of the president's special aircraft board; Hanford S. MacNider of Iowa, former head of the American Legion, and others.

Dwight Filley Davis is 46 years old, having been born in St. Louis on July 5, 1879. His is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Tilden Davis. Young Davis took his A. B. degree at Harvard University in 1900 and later studied law at Washington University where he took the LL. B. degree in 1903. Two years later, on November 15, 1905, he married Miss Helen Brooks of Boston, Mass.

Soon after finishing school Davis began practising law and became one

LOCALITY AND FAME.

The conviction of Edward Bok that a man cannot be buried in any locality, large or small, if he have the elements of greatness and achievement in him, should be of encouragement to those who feel that their talents are wasted because of an unappreciative or depressing environment. "Cream will rise to the surface anywhere," asserts Bok, and an observation of the early life of successful men goes to confirm his statement. Abraham Lincoln in his boy hood split rails for a scanty living, and Daniel Webster was brought up in a New Hampshire log cabin where hard work was the rule and money was seldom seen.

Riches have proved a more formidable handicap to success than poverty. Opposition has been and still is the material upon which character feeds for its development and growth. No Gopher Prairie is strong enough to down a man if he has the will to force ahead.

The country boy has, if anything, the advantage of the city boy, because he has quiet and distance to give him a sane point of view. But the man who will succeed, will succeed anywhere. He has the choice of being engulfed by his circumstances or of triumphing over them.

The man who doesn't lift his hat to the ladies may be ill-bred or he may be just bald headed.

There is no doubt about the genuineness of love in many cases. Just look at what some women marry.

The pleasure of having a wife who sings about her work depends largely upon whether she can carry a tune.

Laziness may be a mother of invention but it generally confines its efforts to inventing ways to get out of work.

Too Much Efficiency

By E. J. Rath (W. J. Watt and Co.)

BEGIN HERE TODAY.

JOHN W. BROOKE, hardware magnate, calls to discuss his bill for services rendered with Mr. Sherwood, president of the Economy and Efficiency Corporation, Limited.

Brooke admires the newly erected contrivance for carrying papers. He admits to Sherwood that the E. & E. has saved him $200,000 a year in the operation of his plant, but seeks to chide the president by suggesting that putting economy into the operation of the Brooke household would be an entirely different matter.

Sherwood objects, but admits that he is not married. Brooke taunts him with the remark, "And yet you say you know everything about anything."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

"Running a household is a business, isn't it?" he demanded.

"It's not even a recreation," muttered the hardware king. "I imagine, if you run it at all, it's a gift."

"Rot; it's a business! It must be! Everything is a business. Eating is a business; so is sleeping. It's a business when you breathe. It's a business when you talk. Why, thinking is a business!"

Mr. Brooke shook his head wearily.

"What's your household investment?" snapped Sherwood suddenly.

"Oh, I don't know. A big bunch of money and three children, I guess."

"What are the annual expenses?"

"God knows!"

Mr. Sherwood gasped and turned pale.

"It's unbelievable!" he exclaimed. "A man runs a household and he doesn't know what it costs! Rotten business! What does it produce?"

"Worry."

"Can you sell that?"

"Can't give it away," sighed Mr. Brooke.

"Amazing!" blurted the E. and E. man. "Never dreamed of such a thing in my life. Why, it's criminal! It's an offense against law and order. Who runs this household of yours?"

"Everybody in it. Connie, mostly; and the servants some."

"Who's Connie?"

"My daughter Constance."

"And there's no system? No accounting?"

"No system I ever discovered, except handing me the bills and telling me to look pleasant."

"And you've never even tried to get at the cost?"

"Oh I started adding up the check-stubs once, but I got scared," said Mr. Brooke sheepishly. "I had too many other things to think about."

The E. and E. president leaned back in his chair and regarded his caller with pity.

"Worst case I ever heard of," he commented with a shake of his head. "Fierce! What do you propose to do about it?"

"I wasn't figuring to do anything about it. What can I?"

"Everything. You can't go on forever this way. Why, it'll ruin your character if it doesn't bust your bank account. You've simply got to stop it."

Mr. Brooke made a helpless gesture and recorded a mental note of regret that he had introduced the subject.

"Well, I haven't time to bother about it now. I've got to go away on a trip. Although it does worry me me about leaving the youngsters. I'm a widower, you see. Connie is supposed to be the boss home, but—well, it all comes pretty high. I suppose I'll have to stand it."

President Sherwood glared indignantly.

"Stand nothing!" he declared. "When are you going away?"

"I'd get away this afternoon if I could. It's a sudden trip."

"For how long?"

"Haven't figured exactly. I can tell you in a few minutes."

"Never mind now. We'll get to that later. Do you want this household of yours managed while you're away?"

Mr. Brooke looked doubtful.

"And reformed?"

The man who financied the household was curious.

"Reorganized, put on its feet, wastage eliminated, economies effected, efficiency installed, time saved, success assured." Mr. Sherwood rattled it off briskly like a candidate with one speech.

The hardware man was obviously interested and not a little startled. He wrinkled his forehead into vertical folds between the eyes and devoted a few seconds to thought.

"But if you never ran a household," he ventured, "how—."

"I never ran a lead-pencil factory until I saved two-fifths of a cent a gross," interrupted Mr. Sherwood sharply. "I never ran a hardware business until I saved over two hundred thousand dollars a year. Man, I can run anything!"

Mr. Brooke's eyes betrayed scepticism.

"Anything!" repeated Mr. Sherwood belligerently. "Anything from the war in Europe to shoveling snow. I could run the government if they'd let me."

"A brownstone front and three children are different from those things," commented Mr. Brooke.

"But the eternal principles of economy and efficiency are immutable," declared Mr. Sherwood, pounding his desk. "They can be applied to anything. This corporation employs experts in every line. I've got a man who can teach a hen how to save time and money laying an egg. Now, while I say I can do anything, when it comes to applying scientific business principles, I'll admit that I never did run a household. Just for that very reason, I want to. I'll do it cheap. I'll make you a low rate. I'll guarantee you results—big results."

"Don't tease me," chided Mr. Brooke.

"I'm serious. You've just suggested a field to me that opens wonderful possibilities. Why, I'd almost take the job for nothing; I would, except that it would violate the principles of efficient management."

Mr. Brooke pondered briefly.

"I've a good mind to talk to Connie about it," he said.

"Don't!"

"What do you mean?"

"Don't talk to anybody about it except me. If you get to talking you won't do it. Decide now! The golden chance is right here. You're going away. Fine! That clears the decks for my man. Mr. Brooke, if you'll give my company full authority in this matter, when you return I'll guarantee to turn over to you a household so thoroughly efficient that it'll pay you money to run it. You'll be able to capitalize it and sell the stock.

The hardware magnate hesitated.

"I'm very fond of my children; I guess I'm indulgent," he confessed.

"Indulgent? Does it help your child to be indulgent toward it? You should be kind, of course; reasonable, affectionate, and all that. But indulgence is another thing. How much better if you did not have to be indulgent; how much more satisfactory to have an efficient, economical child who does not need to be indulgent?"

"Big talk," observed Mr. Brooke, shaking his head.

"Big talk means big results with me. This company never fails. It can't, because it simply applies right principles in the right way. What we do is really very simple—when you know how."

"While I wouldn't expect too much," said the hardware man slowly, "it would be a great comfort for me to know, seeing that I'm going away, that things would be in charge of somebody who—."

"I see we are going to do business," interrupted Mr. Sherwood.

"Oh, I didn't say so. But I was just thinking—."

Mr. Brooke faltered and looked guilty.

"We'll get this on paper at once," said the E. and E. president.

He pushed three buttons on the edge of his desk. One operated a silent signal in front of the stenographer with the dark hair and pink cheeks.

She arose quietly and approached with book in hand. The second button caused the immediate appearance of a clerk carrying a set of legal papers. The third button actuated the electric office-boy, who shot noiselessly into the room and came to a stop at Mr. Sherwood's elbow. Mr. Brooke viewed the swift mobilization of forces with a feeling that he was about to take one of the momentous steps of life.

NEXT CHAPTER: Efficiency invades the Brooke home.

"I've got a man who can teach a hen how to save time and money laying an egg."

WOMEN BORN 1873 TO 1881

Now Is the Critical Time. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will Help You Safely Through

Convoy, Ohio.—"During the Change of Life I was weak and run-down and could hardly do my work. By reading your advertisements I found out about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it has straightened me right out and made me feel like a new woman. By the time I had taken eight bottles I was well and could do my housework on the farm without trouble. I recommended it to my daughter-in-law after her second baby was born and it did her a wonderful lot of good. I told her to try it and if it didn't help her I would pay for it, and before she had taken one bottle she said to me, 'You won't have to pay for it! It is helping me wonderfully!' And she took three bottles of it. You can use my testimonial if you wish."—Mrs. ELSIE ACKERMAN, Convoy, Ohio.

Consider carefully Mrs. Ackerman's letter. Her experience ought to help you. She tells of the trials of middle age and the wonderful results she obtained from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Allison Says Prayer Needed To Find God

Miss Hazel Hawkins Sings at Teachers College Y. W. C. A. Meeting This Morning.

"We need toning up by really communicating with God," sair the Rev. S. P. Allison, in a talk on "Prayer" at the meeting this morning of the Y. W. C. A. of the College. "The Y. W.'s place is to tone up and find God," he added.

"Many things come into prayer: praise for God, and thanks to Him, prayer for others, petition for guidance, forgiveness and humiliation."

He asked, "How do you find language to express prayer?" The speaker thought that the answer was to be found from reading the Bible.

The devotional at the meeting this morning was led by Miss Dorothy England. "I've Done My Work" by Carrie Jacobs Bond, was a vocal solo by Miss Hazel Hawkins, preceding Rev. Allison's talk.

A Pound Now and Then and a World Of Human Nature

"Goodness gracious, Agnes, I've gaines a pound."

And the scales mechanically registered the fact that 878 persons had weighed themselves. Ten days ago a set of Toledo No-Spring Scales was installed in the Farmers' Trust Co. These scales, which are far-famed for their accuracy, are quite the thing in banks these days. They afford such an intimate study of human nature, you know.

"Now that girl comes in here every morning to see what she weighs, "G. L. Wilfley, president of the bank, said, as the speaker of a moment before left the institution, vowing to her companion that ice cream is the curse of the age.

"The scales have only been installed ten days, but already we have 'steady customers,' who come in each day to ascertain their avoirdupois."

Ten minutes of watching afforded a great deal of interest. First came the old man and his wife.

"Did it cost anything."

"No."

"Very well.—Golly, an' I used to tip her at 200."

And then the woman who insisted that her spectacles were in the same class with her coat and should not be counted in the weight. Fair enough, but it was rather fudging a bit when she immediately went to a nearby soda fountain and daintly consumed a quart of ice cream.

But back to the scales. Next—a newly married chap. Yes, the cooking was agreeing with him. He always said it would.

In chuckled, then, the fat man. He chuckled as he waddled to the scales. He chuckled as he mounted them. And in the chuckling, or because of it, the little lever quivered emphatically between 215 and 240.

The scales are so delicately tuned that they will weigh a one-pound object. Attached to them is a sort of a speedless speedometer which records the number of persons weighed.

"Anything else, Mr. Wilfley?"

"Yes, everybody welcome."

"Bible and Science" At College Y. M. C. A.

"Does the Bible conflict with science?" was discussed by T. M. Walton, pastor of the Christian church at Pickering, who is attending college here, in an address to the Y. M. C. A., at the State Teachers College this morning. He took up various verses in Genesis and showed their relation to science and how each harmonized.

"The Bible goes back as for as science goes back," he said, explaining that dates in the Bible at the beginning of each book, were put there by a bishop of the sixteenth century, and that printers still holds to his opinion.

"Money and Christ" was the subject of a short talk by Keith Swisher, another member of the association. "Men sometimes profess to believe in religion to gain business. Money will make a liar and cheat out of any man unless he has the stamina to stand up right," he said.

Preceding the talks, the devotional was led by Floyd Harvey.

Jardine's Approval To Board of Trade Action

Characterizes It As One Of Most Progressive Steps Ever Taken By Body.

Washington, Oct. 13.—Predicting that similar steps would soon be taken by all contract markets in the United States, W. M. Jardine, Secretary of Agriculture, today expressed unqualified approval of the action of the Chicago Board of Trade in adopting, by a large majority, the recommendations recently made by the members' program committee. He characterized the action as "one of the most progressive steps ever taken by the board."

The recommendations adopted provide for setting up a committee on business conduct and for giving the board of directors power to limit daily fluctuations in the market prices of grain during emergency periods.

"I have always vigorously advocated that prices be kept in line with actual economic conditions," commented Secretary Jardine. "Any step in this direction is of benefit not only to farmers but to legitimate business interests everywhere.

"With efficient administration of the plans adopted by the Chicago Board of Trade, which I have every reason to believe will occur, wild fluctuations due to manipulation should be eliminated. Competent, public-spirited men willing to accept appointment on the new business conduct committee will be able to perform in this way a real service to farming, industry, and commerce.

"The adoption of this far reaching plan makes it possible for the Department of Agriculture to cooperate effectively with the Chicago Board of Trade, as I pointed out in urging the acceptance of the plan. The ends contemplated by the Grain Futures Act can be most fully reached through means of this kind. Laws are most effectual when met by sensible, sound cooperation on the part of everybody concerned. I congratulate the Chicago Board of Trade on its adherence to this principle.

"Not the least important effect of the action taken will be the establishment of public confidence in the market, the benefits of which are obvious."

Secretary Jardine has noted with interest and approval, he stated, the adoption of a similiar plan by the Minneapolis Chamber of Commerce, and the agitation in favor of like systems on other exchanges. He anticipates universal acceptance of plans of this character by contract markets in the United States.

L. F. Dehart Dropped In Big Dry Shake-Up

Several Other Drastic Changes to Take Effect Thursday in Missouri Organization.

St. Louis, Oct. 13.—L. F. Dehart, former prohibition director of Missouri, who has been assigned to revocation work since the present administration was inaugurated, six weeks ago, failed of reappointment in the list of recommendations sent to Washington for ratification today by Prohibition Administrator Breuer.

Dehart, who was the friend of E. Mont Reilly, former governor of Porto Rico, and Walter S. Dickey, publisher and Republican politician of Kansas City, will be automatically dropped from the service Thursday, the end of his present term.

A number of other changes are disclosed by the list, which is expected to take effect Thursday, marking the most drastic shakeup in the prohibition forces here in several years.

Frank Rogers, general agent at Kansas City and an intimate friend of E Mont Reilly, also failed to obtain reappointment.

Acting Deputy Administrator Dillon of the Eastern district of Missouri, is slated to become an agent, working out of St. Louis or Kansas City. He was formerly an enforcement agent and was appointed to his present place by W. D. Moss, acting administrator, prior to Breuer's appointment.

Dillon's successor, who will assume duties as assistant to Breuer, has not been named as yet, although it is understood Breuer has already offered the job to one who is considering its acceptance.

George Bausewein, deputy administrator for the Western district of Missouri, with offices at Kansas City, also recently reappointed, will be reduced to agent to work in this state and John Harper of Peoria, Ill., deputy administrator of southern Illinois, with offices in East St. Louis, also will become an agent assigned to Missouri. James E. Barker of Ozark, Ill., will succeed Harper.

The list also failed to include recommendations for two assistants to the legal adviser or chief attorney and 15 new agents.

Closing Grain Review

Chicago, Oct. 13.—Wheat and corn finished higher, oats lower today, on the Chicago Board of Trade. Strength in wheat came after mid-day. The dominant feature was the tight cash situation. The initial drop came in response to weaker northwestern markets in unresponsible cables. At the midsessions, shots sensed full significance of the hard-pressed miller's inability to obtain the cash article. December old showed most strength. The trade was well advanced toward mid-session before a majority of the traders entered the pit.

Corn followed the wheat. Trading was without feature.

Oats were slow and inclined to lag.

Provisions were irregular.

Kansas City Stock Yards, Oct. 12, 1925.

Receipts today 43,000 cattle and 8,000 calves, were the largest thus far this season. The heavy killing frosts late last week was responsible for part of the heavy run, and for the next ten days receipts will be heavy. A large per cent of the run was stockers and feeders. Prices were quoted steady to 25 cents lower, mostly 10 to 15 cents off on killing classes. The big decline in hogs that prevailed late last week was extended 10 to 15 cents today and the market passed into the lowest position of the year. Sheep and lambs were steady.

Today's Receipts.

Receipts today were 43,000 cattle, 7,000 hogs, and 13,000 sheep, compared with 33,000 cattle, 8,000 hogs, and 11,000 sheep a week ago, and 46,950 cattle, 18,350 hogs and 9,950 sheep a year ago.

Beef Cattle.

The few good to choice fed steers offered today sold readily at fully steady prices. Three car loads of 1,450 pound steers brought $14 and other fed steers brought $9.50 to $13.50. Some steers that had been warmed up from grass brought $8.25 to $9.25. Grass fat steers under $8 were 10 to 15 cents lower. Average quality of the grass fat steers was the plainest of the season. Fed cattle were in limited supply. Cows and heifers were 10 to 15 cents lower. Demand was active at the decline.

Veal calves were 50 cents lower.

Stockers and Feeders.

Receipts of stockers and feeders comprised an unusually large per cent of the total cattle run and available supplies were the largest of the season. Prices for the best were fully steady, and the plain and medium kinds were slightly lower. Volume of demand was large, as the buying side realizes that the heavy runs will prevail for only a short period.

Hogs.

A 10 to 15 cent decline in hogs, today, in connection with the sharp decline that prevailed late last week took the market into a new low position for the season, and itself to a lower basis for the beginning of the winter packing season which starts November 1. The top price today was $11.80, and bulk of sales $11.40 to $11.75. Packing sows brought $10 to $10.30 and stock hogs and pigs brought $11.50 to $12.30.

Sheep and Lambs.

Most of the fat lambs sold early at steady prices, but later some sales were considered 10 to 15 cents lower. The bulk of the western lambs sold at $15.40 to $15.65. Some native lambs sold at $14.75 and fat range ewes, $7.60.

Horses and Mules.

of the civic leaders of St. Louis, taking part in varied activities. He has held many political posts here, beginning back in 1907-'09 when he was a member of the St. Louis House of Delegates. In 1911-'14 he served as park commissioner of this city, in which capacity he promoted the organization of playgrounds. It was under his administration that the first swimming pool was built. That is said to have been the first municipal swimming pool in the United States.

Fought in the World War.

In 1917 Davis tendered his services in the World War and was made a captain in the Fifth Missouri Infantry. A few months later he had become a major of the same organization. Going overseas his unit served with the 35th Division and he was promoted to be a lieutenant-colonel after the Argonne campaign. He was in the thick of two great conflicts in the final period of the war—the St. Mihiel and the Argonne offensives—and was twice cited in divisional orders for gallantry in action.

Shortly after his return to St. Louis following the signing of the Armistice, he entered the political field. In the spring of 1920 he announced his candidacy for United States senator on the Republican ticket in opposition to the late Senator Selden P. Spencer. Although Davis has unified support in St. Louis, he was defeated in the State by Spencer. The St. Louis vote stood 32,574 for Davis and 17,810 for Spencer.

In making his senatorial race Davis announced a platform which coincides very strongly with the present policies of President Coolidge. Davis asserted at that time that the Government should assist in bringing this country back to normal by setting an example of thrift. "It should put the administrative departments," he said, "upon an efficient basis as soon as possible and the first step to that end should be the adoption of a budget system. Our present system of taxation should also be carefully revised."

Davis also said at that time: "In any controversy between capital and labor I believe the national government should keep its hands off, except where the public welfare is concerned or the public deeply interested, in which case the public interest should be paramount."

Secured a Government Post in 1921.

Davis was appointed a director of the War Finance Corporation by President Harding on March 22, 1921. The War Finance body had been revived by Congress to help finance the export of American goods to foreign countries through the lending of $500,000,000 of Government money. In this post Davis did a great deal to help the export business and gave aid to thousands of farmers throughout the United States, through banks in the agricultural districts, by lending funds to grow and harvest crops.

It was rumored in 1922 that Davis would be a candidate for senator again and St. Louis organizations began to line up behind him. This movement, however, was silenced by his reappointment as a member of the War Finance Corporation.

Early in 1923 it was announced that J. M. Wainwright, assistant secretary of war, who had been elected to Congress from a New York district would resign. Davis was immediately suggested for the vacant post and his appointment was sent to the Senate by President Harding on Feb. 28, 1923. The appointment was confirmed and Davis took his oath on the following March 4. Two days before he took his office he was awarded a Distinguished Service Cross for gallantry in action in France.

As assistant secretary of war Davis has been in full charge of the war office for some time in the absence of Secretary Weeks, who left Washington on the advice of his physician on May 23 to take an extended rest. In his campaign for senator and in many public speeches later, Davis has made known his ideas on national defense. In his platform in 1920 he said: "I believe that a large professional army is unnecessary and unwise. National safety with freedom from militarism is best assured by a system based on American principles of equality of opportunity and obligation.

"A small professional army, supplemented by trained citizenry a navy adequate for defense and protection of our merchant marine and a reasonable measure of preparedness at all times is in accord with these principles."

Opposed to League of Nations.

Davis was sternly opposed to the League of Nations plan as advocated by President Wilson, asserting "we should never bind ourselves to send our boys to fight overseas at the command of any group of nations, regardless of whether or not the cause appealed to the conscience of the American people as righteous and just."

In January, 1924, speaking before the Chamber of Commerce in St. Louis, he explained the National Defense plan whereby industry would be ready for mobilization in 24 hours in case of war. In concluding his speech he said: "If we are ever again forced into war there must be no slackers and no profiteers and these will be eliminated under the defense plan. It is not preparation for war, it is our best assurance against war. So I confidentially ask you, as patriotic Americans, to support this democratic plan for national defense, passed as it is on that mutuality of responsibility which is the essence of our democratic institutions."

An innovation—an army school of business—was suggested by Davis shortly after he became assistant secretary of war and the plan was approved and carried out through Secretary Weeks.

Davis has been noted for his athletic achievements. While a student at Harvard he attracted national attention by winning tennis contests. In 1923 he was chosen president of the United States Lawn Tennis Association. He is the donor of the world tennis trophy bearing his name. He is a member of the Racquett, Noonday, Country and City Clubs of St. Louis.

Army Aviator Sets New Speed Record

Lieut. Cyrus Bettis Hurtles Through Air at 248.99 Miles An Hour To Win Pulitzer Trophy.

Mitchell Field, Oct. 13.—Covered with grime and glory, with his plane shooting flame in the gathering dark ness late Monday, Lieut Cyrus Bettis, army aviator, won the Pulitzer trophy race, feature of the national air races, broke the world's speed record of 243.67 miles per hour for a closed circuit course, and established a new record of 248.99 miles per hour.

Navy Pilot Averages 241.71 Miles.

Lieut. A. J. Williams, navy pilot, who established the previous record in St. Louis in 1923, came in second with an average speed of 241.71 miles per hour. Three other entries strung along behind and the sixth was unable to complete the race, having been forced down by engine trouble.

The largest crowd yet to attend the meet surged back and forth in the enclosure, and vied for a sight of America's premier racing planes, as Lieutenants Bettis and Williams taxied their planes into position on the starting line.

A Race Against Time.

Taking off one minute apart, the two special Curtis racers of 617 horsepower, piloted by the army and navy crack pilots, circled the field first for a flying start. It was a race against time.

Lieutenant William's speed for the first lap of the 200-kilometer (124.28 miles) course will be reported at 243.69 miles an hour, which was a fraction of a second faster than the best previous Pulitzer time. Immediately afterward Lieutenants Betti's plane shot past the "home" pylon, and his time was given out as 247.81 miles an hour.

Again Increased Speed.

At the end of the third lap it was obviously Lieutenant Bettis's race, Lieutenant Williams's speed going down to 242.39 miles per hour, while Lieutenant Bettis's speed increased to 248.66. Fourth lap speeds were not made public, the judges giving out instead the announcement of Bettis's victory and the average for the whole race.

Lieutenant Bettis's first question upon landing was: "Where is Al (Williams)? I want to ask him what was the matter with his ship." Williams, however, had left the field immediately upon landing. He had been considered a strong possibility as winner of the race after he made an unofficial record of 302.3 miles per hour recently.

Third place in the Pulitzer race was won by Capt. H. W. Cook, who received last minute permission from doctors to participate. He was slightly injurded in an accident several days ago and it had been thought that he would not be able to take part. Lieut. L. H. Dawson was fourth and Lieut. H. J. Norton fifth. Lieut. George T. Cuddihy was forced down.
